JAMES RODGERS, P. M.

Feeding vs. Selling Grain.

The Montrose (Indiana) Farmers' Club lately discussed the question of feeding grain to stock or taking it to market: Mr. Jackson-This matter is governed somewhat by circumstances. For several reasons I am inclined to the opion that feed should be consumed on the farm. By feeding grain on the farm that produces it, we measurably return to the soil that fertility that was used in its production. By selling the products of the soil in the markets, the soil is gradually impoverished, unless the fertility is restored in some way. I think the surplus grain should be fed only upon the farm, and should recommend a retation of the crops. should recommend a rotation of the crops, to aid in keeping up the fertility of the

Mr. Parker—There is no wisdom in farmers growing grain and turning it over to speculators. Farmers should feed all their surplus over to their own stock. This course will make them more money and enable them to more readily keep up the fertility of the soil.

A 150 pound hog, feed 15 bushels of corn, at 35 cents per bushel, can be made to weigh 300 pounds. We find here, then, 150 pounds of pork, worth $9 at 6 cents, produced for $5,25. Take $5,25, market value of corn, from $9, and we find we have saved $3,75

I cannot see why farmers persist in selling their feed at town instead of feeding it out to their own stock at home out to their own stock at home.

Mr. Brown-Whether one should feed surplus grain to stock at home depends on one's proximity to market, value of land, &c. Those living within four or five miles of a good grain market should sell rather than feed to stock. One very remote from market must, necessarily, feed surplus to animals. The value of land is to be taken into consideration. It will not pay to raise into consideration. It will not pay to raise stock on land worth $150 to $200 per acre. Land remote from market, worth from $30 to $35 per acre, it will pay to raise stock upon. The cheap land is the land for stock raising. The log fatted on land work $30 per acre is just as good as if fatted on more valuable land. Formerly, when our prairie lands were cheap, we supplied the markets with cattle. But since they have become too valuable for stock raising, we are driving into our markets thousands of beef cattle from the far-off cheap lands of INDIA RUBBER FOR GRAFTING .- Some of the English gardeners have successfully used strips of India rubber in the place of grafting wax, being neater, more perfect, and not soiling the fingers. Sheets are purchased in market for six pence per square foot, and about as thick as brown paper. They are obtained of the manufacturers of this article before it is applied to muslin and other surfaces. The strips cut from it are about an inch long and an eighth of an inch wide, for small grafting, the pieces stretching two or three times their first length. The ends adhere when pressed firmly with the thumb nail, the sheet having been previously washed and wiped dry. It strikes us that these strips would possess advantages over bass in budding, the bands yielding with growth and preventing cutting into the bark.

Constantly Supplied on Orders.

CALL AND EXAMINE

LIMA BEANS .- Somebody says in the Horticultural Press, that, a year ago Lima beans were worth $10 and $15 per bushel, and in 1869 hundreds of gardeners rushed into their culture. Before the close of the year they were as low as $3 per bushel, and often glad to get the offer. This year a number have relinquished this branch of gardening, and prices have slightly advanced, being now worth but $6 to $7.

But even at these prices they are hardly a profitable grow We have grown them profitable crop. We have grown them for three seasons, and not succeeded in getting over ten shelled bushels per acre, while a friend of ours, a seedman, tells us it won't pay him to grow them for less than $10.

Six yeas ago, a Scotch dairywoman did most of the milking of a herd of nine cows. She was the best and quickest milker we ever knew. The cows gave an unusually large quantity, and continued their milk later than usual. The next year the same job was mainly done by less skillful hands, and the result demonstrated that the loss Was at least ten, if not twenty per cent. Get good cows, but especially good mil-kers.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Dr. SCHENCE advises Consumptives to go to Florida in Winter.

Having for the last thirty-five years devoted my whole time and attention to the study of lung diseases and consumption. I feel that I understand fully the course that ought to be pursued to restore a tolerably bad case of discased lungs to healthy soundness. The first and most important step is for the patient to avoid taking cold, and the best of all places on this continent for this purpose, in winter, is Florida, well down in the State, where the temperature is regular, and not subject to such variations as in more Northern latitudes. Felatica is a point I can recommend. A good hotel is kept there by Peterman. Last winter I saw several persons there whose lungs had been hadly diseased, but who, under the healing influence of the climate and my medicines, were getting well.

One hundred miles further down the river is a point which I would prefer to Palatia, as the temperature is more even and the air dry and bracing. Mellouville and Enterprise are located there. I should give a divided preference to Mellouville. It is two miles from river or sake, and it seems simost impossible to take cold there.
The tables in Florida might be better, and patients complain at times, but that is a good sign, as it indicates a return of appetite, and when this is the case they generally increase in flesh, and then the lungs must heal.

Jacksonville, Hibernia, Green Cove, and many other places in various parts of Florida, can be safely recommended to consumptives in winter. My reasons for asying so are that patients are less liable to take cold there than where there is a less even temperature, and it is not necessary to say that where a consumptive person exposes himself to frequent colds he is certain to die shortly. Therefore my advice is, go well down into the State—out of the reach of prevailing east winds and fogs. Jacksonville, er almost any other of the localities I have mamed, will benefit those who are troubled with a torpid liver, a arnestly recommended.

For fifteen years prior to 1869, I was professionally in few York, Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia every seek, where I saw and examined on an average five hon-

New York, Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia every week, where I saw and examined on an average five handred patients a week. A practice so extensive—embracing every possible phase of lung disease—has emabled me to understand the disease fully, and hence my caution in regard to taking cold. A person may take vast quantities of "Schauck's Polmenie Syrup, Seaweed Tonie, and Mandrake Pills," and yet die if he does not avoid taking cold. In Florida, nearly everybody is using Schanck's Mandrake Pills, for the climate is more likely to produce bilitous habits than mere Northera latitudes. It is a well-established fact that antives of Florida rarely die of consumption, especially those of the Southern part. On the other hand, in New England, one third, at least of the population die of this terrible disease. In the Middle States it does not prevail so largely, still there are many thousands of cases there. What a vast percentage of life would be saved if consumptives were measily alarmed in regard to taking fresh cold as they are about scarlet fever, small pox, &c. But they are not. They take what they term a little cold, which they are creditious enough to believe will wear off in a few days. They pay no attention to it, and hence it lays the foundation for another and another still, until the lungs are diseased beyond all hope for cure.

My advice to persons whose lungs are affected, even eligibily is, to lay in a stock of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Schenck's Scawced Tonic and Schenck's Mandrake Pills and go to Florida. I recommend these particular medicines because I am theroughly acquainted with their action. I know that where they are used in strict accordance with my directions they will do the work that is required. This accomplished, nature will do the very day, will be sure to have a corpse on his hands before long.

My plan is to give my three medicines, in accordance with my directions they will do the very day, will be sure to have a good eign when a patient begins to grow hungry. I have hopes of such. With trate and annoy, and the patient gets well-provided he avoids taking cold.

Now there are many consumptives who have not the means to go to Florida. The question may be asked, is there no hope for such? Cartainly there is. My advice to such is, and ever has been, to stay in a warm room during the winter, with a temperature of about seventy degrees, which should be kept regularly at that point by means of a thermemeter. Let such a patient take his exercise within the limits of the room by walking up and down as much as his strength will permit, in order to keep up a healthy circulation of the blood. I have cured thousande by this system and can do so again. Consumption is as easily cured as any other disease, if it is taken in time, and the proper kind of treatment is pursued. The fact stands undisputed on record that Schonek's Pulmonic Syrup, Mandrake Pills, and Seaweed Tonic have cured very many of what seemed to be hopeless case of censumption. Go where you will, you will be almost certain to find some poor consumptive who has been rescued from the very jaws of death by their use.

So far as the Mandrake Pills are concerned, everybody should keep a supply of them on hand. They act on the

So far as the Mandrake Pills are concerned, everybody should keep a supply of them on hand. They ack on the liver better than calomel, and leave none of its hurtful effects behind. In fact they are excellent in all cases where a purgative medicine is required. If you have partaken too freely of fruit and diarrhea ensues, a does of the Mandrakes will cure you. If you are subject to sick headache, sake a does of the Mandrakes and they will relieve you in two hours. If you would obviate the effect of a change of water, or the too free indulgence in fruif, take one of the Mandrakes every night or every other night, and you may then drink water and eat watermelons, pears, apples, plums, peaches or corn, without the risk of being made sick by them. They will protest those who live in damp situations against chills and fevers. Try them. They are perfectly harmless. They can do you good only. I have abandoned my professional visits to Beston and New York, but continue to see patients at my office, No. 15 N. SIXTH Street, Philadelphin, every Saturday, from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. Those who win a therough examination with the Respiremeter declares the exact condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not. But I desire it distinctly understood that the value of my medicines dopends entirely upon their being taken strictly according to directions.

In conclusion, I will say that who persons take my medicines and their systems are Lought into a healthy condition thereby, they are not so liable to take cold, yet no one with diseased lungs can bear a sudden change of atmosphere without the liability of greater or less irritation of the bronchmit tubes.

Fall directions in all languages accompany my medicines, so explicit and clear that any one can use them without consulting me, and can be bought from any druggist.
